With All Your Heart: The New CBST Siddur B'chol L'vav'cha for Friday Night From Congregation Beth Simchat Torah

Congregation Beth Simchat Torah (CBST) is proud to publish Siddur B'chol L'vav'cha, (With All Your Heart), a new edition of the community's long-standing Friday night prayer book. Created for individuals coming from a broad spectrum of Jewish practice and tradition, this siddur introduces numerous liturgical innovations that expand definitions of Jewish family and community to explicitly embrace lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) families. "B'chol L'vav'cha publicly affirms the pride GLBT Jews possess today, and provides a message of tolerance, inclusion, and inspiration that will facilitate meaningful moments of communal and personal devotion and joy for all Jews," said Rabbi David Ellenson, President of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. "It roots itself firmly in the soil of Jewish liturgical tradition and draws creatively upon a whole variety of Jewish sources while providing a host of innovative and imaginative poems and prayers." With All Your Heart is a meaningful and important addition to a congregation's liturgical collection, and is an important resource for LGBT-friendly synagogues. "This siddur represents and embraces all of us in our beautiful and God-given diversity," said the book's editor in chief, Rabbi Sharon Kleinbaum, Senior Rabbi of New York City's Congregation Beth Simchat Torah (CBST) since 1992. "It represents a key facet of CBST's mission of creating a kehilla kedosha, a sacred community, built on a love of the Jewish people, a passion for social justice, prayer, and study. Our hope is that this prayer book finds its way to synagogues and into homes across the nation."
