Seven Lonely Places, Seven Warm Places: The Vices and Virtues for Children By April Bolton

With imaginative illustrations that give small children concrete, immediate examples of the seven sins, this book explains how Pride, Greed, Envy, Anger, Lust, Gluttony and Sloth can make us very lonely people. Then it offers the cure, the four cardinal and three theological virtues--Prudence, Justice, Courage, Temperance, Faith, Hope and Charity--that can mend relationships and rebuild what sin has broken.

Editorial Review

Review

Seven Lonely Places provides an open door to a rich area of potential darkness and hopeful strengths. --
Inland Register, Spokane, Washington, April 10, 2003

A wonderful book of lessons for young and old alike. --The Courier, Winona, MN, March 2003

Basic enough for all of us! --WATERwheel, Winter 2002

From the Publisher

Virtue and vice are hard to explain, especially to little ones who always ask why they must share or say "thank you," and why they must not be angry or eat all the cookies. When "because I said so" is no longer enough, it is time for Seven Lonely Places, Seven Warm Places.

Beyond the tired preaching and moralizing that are part of every parent's day, offer your child the warmth of virtue, with this gentle, charming book, and revisit for yourself that virtuous feeling of loving and being loved.

About the Author

APRIL BOLTON, a recipient of the Elliston Prize for Poetry at the University of Cincinnati, is a writer, book editor and mother of three (very virtuous) children.

BRENT BECK is excited to be illustrating his first book. When he's not drawing on napkins and tablecloths, Brent enjoys spending time around Cincinnati with his wife, Diane, their two cats, and the chipmunks and rabbits that live under the marigolds.
