The Bride's Ritual Guide: Look Inside to Find Yourself By Cornelia Powell

"The Bride's Ritual Guide: Look Inside to Find Yourself" shows why Cornelia Powell has been known as "the bride's sage" for over 25 years. Tweaking the familiar "something old, something new" bridal rhyme, dear to generations of women, Cornelia created a collection of "RitualWise Bridal Notes" that will rewrite how brides prepare for their wedding. She combines bridal folklore, goddess legend, deep-breathing ease, costume history, and fairy godmother-like intuitive wisdom to reveal how every bride can discover the depth of her own heart and experience the intimacy of her bridal rite-of-passage. Entertaining yet soothing and reassuring, "The Bride's Ritual Guide" also offers a Wisdom Journal with quotes of borrowed women's wisdom, along with space for the reader to jot down her own insights and inspirations. With its invitation to "look inside to find yourself," this becomes an essential gift book for brides of all ages and a pleasure for every woman who loves matters of the heart.

Editorial Review

About the Author

Cornelia Powell first made headlines in the world of weddings with her innovative and nationally recognized designer art-to-wear store in Atlanta in the 1980s and 90s. Cornelia's unique focus on the "grown-up bride" brought to life for all brides the womanly spirit of her upcoming rite-of-passage. Cornelia later provided the same intimacy, awareness, and storytelling delight to a world audience in her popular online magazine, "Weddings of Grace." As a bridal historian and wedding entrepreneur, Cornelia draws the best from the past and creates a "modern mythology" for today's bride. In her elegant new blog, Letters to a Bride, this wise and original voice delivers messages of ease and reassurance to a woman's life at a time when she can use lots of both! In her articles, blogs, books, and as a sought after public speaker, Cornelia uses the language of ritual and relationship, costume and folklore, stillness and self-discovery to speak to the hearts of all women.
